Tim Cook

Tim is a retired process/chemical engineer who repairs electrical items and mechanical items such as sewing machines. He also does bike adjustments such as brakes, broken spokes and if people bring in spare parts, he can do replacements such as inner tubes or new tyres.

As a life-long tinkerer he grew up fixing broken items so he is a perfect fit for Ruthin Repair Café. His Dad was also a fixer so it gave him the confidence as a young person to repair and fix up bikes. At around 11 years old he used to repair bikes and then sell them on. This meant he had the money to upgrade his own bikes. As an adult he continues to fix his own and other peoples' items and also does his own car mechanics.

Saving things from the scrap heap, being with like-minded people and doing something positive for the community are the reasons Tim returns month after month to repair items at the Repair Café.